Life insurance

Life insurance is a way of quickly leaving a little money to your loved ones to help meet financial obligations in the event of your death. It is paid out in a single, tax-free payment that your beneficiary or beneficiaries can use at their discretion. Although its main use is often to replace lost income or to help pay for funeral expenses, this is not compulsory.

Take the time to consider your specific needs and discuss them with a professional to find the best solution for you. You can also find out more about insurance, investments and savings by visiting the Autorité des marchés financiers website.

Although insurance against damage, theft or vandalism of your car is not compulsory, we strongly recommend that you consider it, depending on the value of your vehicle.
